Bad Weekend Is Expected In Saigon

Police, Troops
Fear Wave Of May Day Terrorism

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Striking through a hazy sky, U.S. Navy planes rained bombs and rockets on two major North Vietnamese military depots Friday. Spokesmen said both were smashed, with secondary explosions in one case adding to the toll.

Targets were the Thien Linh Dong army supply depot, 75 miles south of Hanoi, and the Phu Qui ammunition depot, 45 miles farther south. Briefing officers said the raiders destroyed 19 buildings, damaged 13, knocked out four railroad boxcars and blew up a petroleum storage tank. Bomb loads totaled 62 tons.

Destroy Ammunition

In all, the carrier Hancock sent 57 planes—Skyraiders and Skyhawks — into two strikes against the Phu Qui depot. Both were reported marked by blasts suggesting hits on stored munitions.

Destruction of the Thien Linh Dong depot was the assignment of 25 planes from the carrier Midway. That attack was one of the closest every made to Hanoi in the aerial campaign launched Feb. 7. The previous closest was a raid April 3 on a river bridge at Duong Phuong, 65 miles south of Ho Chi Minh's Communist capital.

Spokesmen said ground fire was light and all planes returned.

Beat Off Cong Raid

A Viet Cong battalion launched an attack in the night on a government outpost at Phu Hiep, 100 miles west of Saigon, but was beaten back after reaching the barbed wire perimeter. Villagers said they saw the Red survivors carry off from 70 to 80 bodies. Sixteen government troops were killed and 14 were wounded, three are missing.

Sixteen U.S. Air Force Sky- raiders dumped napalm on the Communist-infested U Minh forest, 150 miles southwest of Saigon.

One of half a dozen fires burned on a 30-mile front.

A stormy weekend was expected in Saigon. The main police worry was the possibility of Viet Cong terrorism Saturday to mark May Day, a labor holiday in much of the world outside the United States and Canada.

American installations were alerted to be especially watchful.

Wallace Invites Editors On Guided Tour Of Alabama

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Gov. George Wallace invited editors of more than 1,700 daily newspapers across the country Friday to visit Alabama in June to get "the true Alabama story."

Wallace said the state was planning a four-day "observational trip" for the editors June 7-10.

The newsmen will be taken on a planned tour the first three days, and may choose where they wish to visit the fourth day.

The state will furnish transportation and handle hotel and travel reservations, Wallace said.

Pope Paul VI Pleads For End To Conflict

VATICAN CITY (AP) — In a clear plea against stepping up the conflict in Viet Nam, Pope Paul VI called Friday for talks at all levels to end "ever-growing" acts of war. The plea came in the second encyclical letter of Paul's 22-month reign as ruler of the Roman Catholic Church.

Without mentioning Viet Nam by name, the Pope's words appeared directed at both sides in the struggle there. His encyclical condemned guerrilla warfare and terrorism as well as the "practice of holding hostages and of taking reprisals against unarmed civilians."

The pontiff called the present international situation "darker and more uncertain than ever, now that grave new threats are endangering the supreme benefit of world peace."

Encyclical "Mense Maio"—Month of May—the "letter carried forward the personal peace campaign Pope Paul launched with his first encyclical last August, when he offered to mediate in world crisis.

In the new encyclical, the Pope noted that the month of May is traditionally dedicated to the Virgin Mary. He urged priests everywhere to exhort the faithful to pray to her for peace.

McDonald Loses Final Tabulation

Leadership Of Big Union To Change Hands On June 1

PITTSBURGH (AP) — I.W. Abel has been declared winner of the United Steelworkers' bitter presidential election today, but defeated incumbent David J. McDonald vowed to contest the result "to the fullest."

"I cannot abandon my responsibilities to the United Steelworkers of America," McDonald told a news conference Friday shortly after the union's three international tellers declared Abel winner by 10,142 votes. The election was Feb. 9.

Abel, 56, veteran of early union organizing who has been the union's No. 2 man since McDonald took office in 1952, brushed aside McDonald's prospects of overturning the election.

"We have demonstrated admirably up to this point that the Steelworkers are united," Abel said.

He indicated that his immediate goal would be to get back to bargaining over a new contract with basic steel May 18.

"The task of negotiating and completing agreements with the steel industry is among the immediate challenges we face," he said.

McDonald said he would protest the election to the union executive board, which is expected to give him a hearing within three weeks. He said the board is empowered to order a new vote in locals where irregularities are found.

The 33-member board is controlled by Abel supporters. McDonald declined to say if he would carry his protest to the U.S. Labor Department and seek a new election under the Landrum-Griffin Act if the board goes against him.

No matter what McDonald does, it is not expected to delay Abel from taking office June 1. McDonald, 62, appeared relaxed and jovial after the announcement that marked the first official word that his 12-year rule was ending.

He attacked only the report of the tellers and made no comment about Abel.

The tellers report gave no breakdown of the total vote by the 29 union districts. But it appeared that most of Abel's majority came from Canadian locals.

More than 600,000 Steelworkers voted. The tellers reported that Abel polled 308,910 to 298,768 for McDonald.

The delay in the formal announcement of a winner was caused by protests of voting irregularities. The tellers traveling around the country hearing some 150 such protests. Out of these hearings the vote in only four locals was invalidated.

200 Chilean Youths Stone U.S. Consulate

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — About 200 youths protesting U.S. troop landing in the Dominican Republic threw rocks at the U.S. consulate Friday but did no damage.

The youths were driven off by police, who fired streams of water at them from a water cannon mounted atop an armored car.

LBJ Tells Nation Cease-Fire Agreement Has Been Achieved

Northwestern Quake Damage $12.5 Million

SEATTLE (UPI) — The Washington State Civil Defense Department Friday estimated Thursday's earthquake caused damage amounting to $12.5 million in western Washington.

The agency, in a report released at Olympia, estimated damage to private property at about $8.2 million and damage of $4.3 million to public property.

Of the total estimate, about $2.1 million applied to public schools.

While officials went about the business of trying to get more detailed and accurate appraisals of damage, shaken western Washington was mostly back to normal Friday.

Gov. Dan Evans said it would be Monday at the earliest before he would decide if he would declare the western half of the state, where the strong quake was centered, a disaster area.

Evans said he was still waiting for a detailed report from the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers on damage from the tremor.

The quake, centered about 40 miles west of here, caused five deaths. Two men here were crushed to death by falling debris and three women died of heart attacks during the twisting tremor which spent most of its force within one minute.

Its magnitude on the Richter scale was about 7, the strongest earthquake in the Pacific Northwest in 16 years, and it was felt from British Columbia to Oregon and as far east as western Montana.

Urges Action By OAS For Enforcement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson announced Friday night that a cease-fire agreement, yet unenforced, had been achieved in the Dominican Republic. He urged the Organization of American States (OAS) to act promptly to make it work.

"There are signs that people trained outside the Dominican Republic are seeking to gain control," Johnson said in a statement on nationwide television and radio.

He spoke after administration officials acknowledged publicly that leftwing elements, including some Dominicans trained in Communist Cuba and Czechoslovakia, were strengthening their influence in the week-long revolt.

The United States widened its own commitment in the struggle by sending 3,500 Marines and paratroopers into and around the Dominican capital of Santo Domingo to establish a so-called neutral zone in the city. Johnson reaffirmed the U.S. position that its troops were sent in to protect American and other foreigners at the request of local police and military officials.

But, he said, "In the last 24 hours, violence and disorder have increased. There is great

4 Men Killed In Explosion At Fairmont

FAIRMONT, W. Va. (UPI) — Four men were killed and two others injured when an explosion rocked an air shaft being constructed in a remote area between Fairmont and nearby Mannington, about 15 miles away.

Authorities said three of the dead men were from the Mannington area and the fourth victim from Pennsylvania.

Their identities were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Injured but in good condition at Fairmont General Hospital is Harold Swart, 33, of Washington, Pa. Doctors said Swart suffered several fractures and lacerations.

Inspector-at-large Leslie Ryan of the State Mines Department said the air shaft was being built for Mountaineer Coal Company's Farmington No. 9 mine on Lewellen Run west of Mannington by Johnson Construction Co., shaft contractors, of Washington, Pa.

A spokesman at the scene said that six men were working at the bottom of the 150 foot shaft on scaffolds when the explosion occurred. What triggered it was not known immediately.

The sixth man working in the shaft was not injured but just shaken up, the spokesman said. Another crew of six were working outside the shaft and were not hurt.

The explosion reportedly happened about 7 p.m.

Authorities said there was no fire and that the victims were badly mangled by the blast.

One Dead, 13 Wounded As Battle Opens

American GIs
Fight Alongside Dominican Troops

By MARTIN McREYNOLDS

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (UPI) — A U.S. Marine was killed Friday and 13 other American servicemen wounded in an exchange of gun fire with leftist rebel troops near the U.S. Embassy. Some 3,500 Leathernecks and paratroopers threw up a protective ring around American civilians caught up in the Communist-infiltrated civil war.

Attempt Takeover

It was reported that leftwing elements, including some Dominicans trained in Communist Cuba and Czechoslovakia, were attempting to take over the revolt.

Tank-led Marines, backed up by 82nd Airborne paratroopers, drove a wedge into Santo Domingo to create an "international refuge zone" harboring Americans and other nationals trapped by the fierce fighting.

The Marines encountered fire on the northern perimeter of the zone as they sought to link up with army paratroopers in a pincer movement to cut off the leftist rebel forces, including a handful of armed civilians.

Completion of the pincer movement would leave loyalist Dominican troops under Gen. Elias Wessin free to move into the city against rebel nests of resistance.

The firing that inflicted the casualties on the U.S. forces took place near the former old airport on the city's outskirts.

The wounded included some paratroopers from the 82nd Division, airlifted into the island from Ft. Bragg, N.C. The American wounded were airlifted by Marine helicopter to the aircraft carrier Boxer standing offshore. The body of the dead Marine also was taken to the Boxer.

Rebel forces were still strongly entrenched in the heart of the city. They stormed a 200-man police garrison in the Ozama fortress and seized it late Friday. Rebel troops also reportedly captured the small town of Bonao, in the Dominican interior.

Rebel strength appeared to be increasing and seemed to be winning more favor among the civilian population.

Reports of atrocities by the leftist rebels continued to mount. One unconfirmed but reliable report said the rebels lined up some 20 loyalists against a wall and executed them by machinegun fire.

Loyalist troops, including the

India, Pakistan Deadlock Over Cease-Fire Plan

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India and Pakistan, the quarreling giants of southern Asia, deadlocked Friday on cease-fire proposals to end fighting in the Rann of Kutch.

Combat was limited for the third consecutive day and it was reported the United States and Britain exerted heavy pressure on both nations to call off the hostilities.

But blood ran hot on both sides of the frontier and few responsible officials in New Delhi — foreign or Indian — would predict what the future holds for India's 480 million people and Pakistan's 110 million.

Pakistan's Government charged that Indian troops have stepped up military activity in Kashmir, reinforcing frontier units and building new bunkers along the cease fire line in that border state. It said eight Indians were killed in two skirmishes Monday and Tuesday 150 miles northwest of Rawalpindi.

President Johnson's special envoy, Henry Cabot Lodge, arriving in New Delhi on a trip scheduled earlier to explain the U.S. Viet Nam policy, also discussed the Kutch fighting with Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri on Friday night.

Moves By Johnson Warn World U.S. Will Defend Freedom

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the dispatch of U.S. Marines to the Dominican Republic — reversing a generation of Latin-American policy — President Johnson may finally be getting his point across to the rest of the world.

The United States is "fed up" with having its citizens threatened, its embassies attacked, its interests violated, either by lawless mobs or hostile foreign governments.

More significantly but less obviously, the Johnson administration also seems entirely ready now to run some long risks for major policy purposes — risks such as it has undertaken to try to stop Communist conquest of Viet Nam and to nip at the outset a possible pro-Castro attempt to make the Dominican Republic a second Cuba.

U.S. officials hope that the import of sterner moves that the Johnson administration is applying to foreign relations will not be lost, particularly on Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro and on the leaders of Red China.

Officials feel the major potential for future troublemaking lies in Peking and Havana, but that if the policymakers in both those Communist capitals understand the hardening sense of determination in Washington, they may proceed more cautiously.

Administration officials do not deny there has been a toughening of the U.S. response to foreign challenges or dangers.

Johnson was faced with the choice of using force, as he saw the situation early this week, or possibly allowing hundreds of Americans to die, possibly also allowing a nation reduced to anarchy to be taken over by a Castro Communist.

The broader significance of the President's action in this crisis results from the fact that it is the latest in a series of tough policy decisions at the White House in the last six months.

In his State of the Union message Jan. 4, Johnson took note of attacks on U.S. positions, citizens and installations around the world and laid down this warning:

"We are prepared to live as good neighbors with all, but we cannot be indifferent to acts designed to injure our interests, our citizens, or our establishments abroad. A community of nations requires mutual respect. We shall extend it — and we shall expect it."

Two weeks earlier in a news conference summing up the year 1964, with its library burnings, embassy stonings, and other foreign affronts to the United States, Secretary of State Dean Rusk said that such incidents inevitably damage relations between the United States and the other countries involved.

It was last November that the pattern of Johnson's tough, pragmatic approach began to develop clearly. At that time, the Congo was falling toward chaos and hundreds of Americans and Europeans were trapped in a territory held by pro-Communist rebels, particularly in Stanleyville. On Nov. 25, U.S. Air Force planes ferried in Belgian paratroopers for a rescue operation that brought out 1,650 citizens of 17 different nations, including 55 Americans.

For that act, the United States was widely denounced on the ground that the rescue operation had contributed to the defeat of the rebel forces in the Stanleyville area and strengthened the Congo government.

U.S. embassies were stoned or defaced in Moscow and other capitals, and in Cairo a mob burned a U.S. library.

In Egypt, worsening relations with the United States over the Congo and other issues led to an angry speech by President Gamal Abdel and a disclosure that he was supplying help to the Congo rebels. In another of the tough-line decisions, the Johnson administration suspended final delivery on $37 million of a surplus aid program. The administration also has refused to consider an Egyptian request for a new $500-million worth of aid, primarily wheat.

Anne Arundel County Budget Is $43 Million

New Tax Rate Is Set At $2.99

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A record $43 million operating budget, including funds for healthy pay raises for teachers, was submitted Friday to the Anne Arundel County Council by County Executive Joseph W. Alton Jr.

The budget, Alton's first and the first under the new charter government, is about $9 million more than that for 1964, the last full-year budget before the county switched from a calendar to a fiscal year.

The council also received a capital improvements budget for fiscal 1966 of about $13 million. The major single item is $1 million for a new jail.

The new budget will require a property tax rate of $2.99, compared with a current rate of about $2.60 which varies in areas of the county.

Taxpayers in the city of Annapolis, however, will benefit from a 20 per cent discount to $2.79, Alton said, because of "The fact that the city provides many services for itself."

The seven-man council can make cuts in the budget, but cannot add to it.

air force and navy, strafed some leftist strongholds in the city, but they did not seem to have any major effect on the fighting.

Seize Two Bridges

U.S. paratroops, meanwhile, seized two bridges linking Santo Domingo with the San Isidro Air Base where Wessin has his operational headquarters and where the paratroopers landed.

The air base was ringed by U.S. Marines and paratroopers who patrolled the area in jeeps with mounted machine guns. UPI correspondent Matthew Kenny, who landed at the airport, said he spotted smoke swirling from various parts of Santo Domingo indicating some areas in the city were burning.

The airport, located about 20 miles southeast of the city, was a sea of planes including the C-130 transports which carried in the airborne division, some Dominican P-51 fighters and Marine helicopters shuttling between the field and the U.S. warships in the harbor.

Marines said some of the helicopters had been fired on by rebel snipers but there had been no heavy damage.

To John Forces

The apparent American military strategy was for the paratroops to drive across the city, skirting rebel strongpoints, and join up with the Marine forces deployed along the residential area.

Marines setting up the defense perimeter sprayed the walls of police headquarters with machinegun fire when fire was directed at them from the general area.

A "cease-fire" arranged by the panal nuncio was to have gone into effect at noon Friday but nothing came of it.

American paratroops were airlifted into the country Thursday night and Friday to back up the Marines. Their arrivals coincided with new sniper attacks on the American Embassy but no casualties were reported.

Snipers Killed

From two to four and perhaps as many as seven snipers were killed by Marine guards and Dominican loyalist troops Thursday when the embassy came under six hours of intermittent sniper fire.

The situation in Santo Domingo late Friday was described officially as "almost anarchy." There was major fighting in the old city between leftist rebels and 200 police troops holed up in Ozama fortress.

3 Newspapers Are Launched In Baltimore

Limited Editions Are Born Of Strike

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimoreans had a choice, even though limited, of buying a local newspaper Friday for the first time in 10 days.

Two eight-page and one 16-page tabloid were distributed to newsstands and stores. The publishers of each said they had about 50,000 copies printed.

The city of nearly one million population has been without a local daily since April 20. The News American suspended publication of its afternoon and Sunday editions that day.

The Baltimore Sun ceased its morning, afternoon and Sunday issues that day before.

The Sunpapers had been struck by the American Newspaper Guild after expiration of a contract April 16. Printers and truck drivers refused to cross the ANG picket lines.

Independent Union

The News American said that was a breach of a common contract with it and the Sunpapers. The editorial employees of the News American have been represented by a union independent of the ANG.

The ANG published the 16-page paper called The Baltimore Banner. It plans to come out every weekday during its strike.

Sports staffers of the News American published an eight-page tabloid devoted to sports, radio and television listings. They called it the Baltimore Sports Scope.

Students at Johns Hopkins University put out the other eight-page tabloid, the New Baltimore Morning Herald.

All were priced at 10 cents. The management of the Sunpapers and negotiators for the ANG are scheduled to meet again Monday with federal mediators.

Represents Mayor, Governor

Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin of Baltimore announced Friday he and Gov. Tawes were suggesting that Dr. Otto F. Kraushaar, president of Goucher College, represent them at the negotiations.

"Dr. Kraushaar's services initially will be to keep the governor and myself fully informed as to progress and, when appropriate, to supplement and assist the efforts of the mediation service," the mayor stated.

The suggestion was made in letters to the Sunpapers, the guild and the mediation service.

He credited the Vatican envoy to Santo Domingo with "an outstanding effort of mediation" in arranging a cease-fire. "But this agreement is not now as I speak being fully respected," he said.

"The inter-American system and its principle organ, the Organization of American States, have a grave and immediate responsibility," he added. "The future of that system may well be at stake."

Many Small Towns Fight Rising Water

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Mississippi River crest swelled toward Burlington, Iowa, and the already submerged town of Gulfport, Ill., Friday on its record flood rampage which has caused an estimated $10 million in damage between Dubuque, Iowa and Hannibal, Mo.

The preliminary damage estimate was made by U.S. Army Engineers.

The flood, still maintaining high-water pressure on walls and earthworks of Dubuque, Clinton and Davenport, Iowa, and Moline, East Moline and Rock Island, Ill., upstream, passed Muscatine on Thursday night.

The river, running seven to eight feet above its overflow stages, put levees at Keithsburg and Oquawka, Ill., to their maximum tests. Each town has about 1,000 residents.

At Keithsburg, Jodo Hainaut, secretary of the town's main industrial firm, Cannon Bronze Corp., said the plant employing 100 persons was safe as a 20.38-foot record stage, nearly 8.5 feet above flood, was recorded.

The apparent critical point downstream was at Niota, Ill., across the river from Fort Madison, Iowa, where Town Supervisor F.W. Smith said about 500 dike workers "don't know for sure whether we're winning or losing."

Here, there was a continual battle to reinforce soft spots that developed in the earthen dike protecting the Illinois Highway 96 approach to the Fort Madison Bridge across the Mississippi. Also at stake were the homes of 200 residents.

A crest of 21 feet, two feet higher than the previous record of June 1851, was expected Saturday. Fort Madison, on high ground, was secure.

The crest, expected Sunday at Quincy, subject to continuing revision, was projected Friday at 22.5 feet. Quincy's 45,000 residents were snug on a bluff well above the stream.

Just to the north and south of Quincy, however, backwaters spread over 15,000 acres of farmland and surrounded industrial plants, still protected by their individual dikes. The cropland was expected to be a total loss this year to owners because of the mud cake drying bottomlands leave after such a flood.

120 European Industrialists Visit Maryland

BALTIMORE (AP) — About 120 space industry leaders from Europe, now touring the United States, will visit Westinghouse Electric's Defense and Space Center in Baltimore Monday.

The industrialists will arrive in Baltimore Sunday evening accompanied by former astronaut John Glenn, now a consultant to the National Aeronautics and Space Agency.

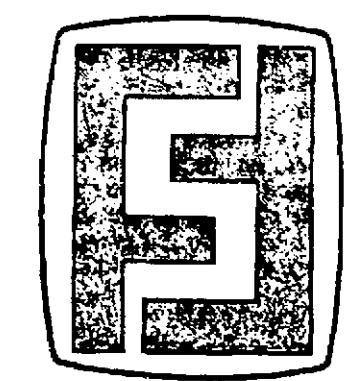

The Europeans are members of Eurospace, an organization of space firms. They are from France, Germany, Belgium, Italy, England, Sweden, Israel, the Netherlands and Switzerland.

At Westinghouse, they will hear a talk by Harold M. Watson on the British-American satellite Ariel II, which was launched March 27, 1964, and still is in operation. Watson is international satellite manager of Westinghouse's Aerospace Division.

Charles J. Denton, a Westinghouse engineer, will tell the Europeans about lunar cameras the firm is building for the first astronauts on the moon to use. The work is being done for the Houston (Tex.) Manned Space Center.

The Europeans will tour the Westinghouse installations then leave after lunch to continue their cross-country visit.

Fire Damages Dwelling On O'Neil Street

A local couple escaped over the porch roof yesterday when fire and smoke blocked the downstairs exits of their home at 531 O'Neil Street, off Dilley Street in North End.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Jenkins awoke shortly after 9 a. m. to find a blaze raging in the living room of their two-story frame residence. The retired couple, the only people occupying the dwelling, escaped unhurt.

Mr. Jenkins said he was awakened by a "sizzling sound," found his escape blocked and he and his wife went out a second-story window to a porch roof.

Mr. Jenkins said the dwelling had been converted from a double to a single home.

Central and East Side firemen responded to a call from a neighbor of the Jenkins'. Two pumps, a rescue truck and approximately eight men answered the call. The blaze was extinguished in about 15 minutes. Some charred furniture was hauled into the yard and wetted down.

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker said cause of the fire had not been determined.

Right To Sue

district director is acting under constitutional statutes, someone has the right to restrain him.

"We consider this a true class action. The amount in controversy actually is in hundreds of millions of dollars."

"Where does this court get its jurisdiction in this case?" asked Judge Sobeloff, returning to a point each of the judges had raised.

"Jurisdiction is bestowed on this court in any civil action arising under an act of Congress providing for internal revenue," said Kerpelman.

Gobel said: "The court has no right to adjudicate... and federal taxpayers have no right to sue. This is a suit against the United States and there must be a federal waiver of sovereign immunity and there is none."

"You're not relying on the statute, you're attacking the statute," Judge Sobeloff told Kerpelman.

"We contend whether we are relying on attacking, it gives us the right to come into court," Kerpelman replied.

"Is there any case giving us this interpretation?" asked Judge Sobeloff.

"No, your honor," Kerpelman replied.

Although the Crees received a refund instead of paying taxes in 1963, Kerpelman said, they did pay taxes on their 1964 income. The court gave him the opportunity to file a written amendment of the complaint along this line.

At the same time, Gobel was told to submit a memorandum on Congressional debate about whether courts are given the express ability to review validity of aid to churches.

The government attorney also is to try to determine whether there are any churches in Maryland actually taking advantage of the exemption. In court, neither he nor Kerpelman could tell the judges whether there are.

When Kerpelman said he had no Maryland statistics but assumed this exemption was being taken, Judge Sobeloff told him: "Without having any facts you come into court tilting against this abstraction in law and you limit it to Maryland."

The court took the argument under advisement.

Kansas Co. Purchases Hotel Here

The Maryland Hotel property at the corner of Baltimore and North Mechanic Street has been sold to a Kansas corporation known as News, Inc.

The transaction was processed through the Allegany County Orphans Court as the property was part of the estate of Frances P. Cavanaugh. John M. Robb, local attorney, handled the transaction for the executors of the estate. William L. Wilson, local attorney, was counsel for the Kansas corporation.

The sale price was $33,000 and the Orphans Court has issued an order nisi under which the sale will be finally ratified May 13 if there are no objections.

Currently the property is used for a hotel, a men's wear store, a barbershop and a store selling religious books and articles.

Four Sentenced

Judge Getty gave him one year on both the fourth and fifth counts and up to six months on each of the first three counts, but made them concurrent or a single sentence.

But before giving Klosterman the lightest of the sentences, Judge Getty stressed that he was not giving the Eckhart youth the "magic term" which many of offenders think is their constitutional right, a suspended sentence.

"I assure you that when you are here before me on a criminal charge, you will find that suspended sentences will be few and far between," the new judge concluded.

The judge had commented earlier that despite the fact that the boys could not be prosecuted for desecrating the American and Maryland flags, their actions had shown an utter disregard for the property rights of others.

Attorney John C. Sullivan was court appointed to represent Preston and Binnix. Attorney Miller Bowen was retained as legal counsel for Klosterman and was court appointed to represent Crawford.

Concerning Crawford's sentence, it was recommended that he be considered for transfer to Patuxent Institution, the place for defective delinquents.

Investigation of the crime spree was handled by Frostburg Assistant Police Chief Leslie Bevan, Frostburg Police Officers John Starkey, James Pfaff and James Bucklew, Cpl. Milton Hart of the State Police and County Investigator William F. Baker.

Church Paint Fund Dinner Tonight

A kick-off congregational dinner will be held today at 6:30 p. m. by St. Luke's Lutheran Church to mark the start of the church's paint fund campaign.

A beef dinner will be cooked and served by the Men of St. Luke's. Edward Eichner will be master of ceremonies and will be in charge of entertainment.

Mrs. William Firey will sing to the accompaniment of Miss Carole Reith.

The "Musettes" composed of Doris Mann, Harlan Dicken, Donna Snyder, Carolyn McIntyre, Christie Armstrong, Lois Cole, Susan Hammer, Martha Robertson, and Linda Richardson will sing. Nancy Beachley is the accompanist.

Charles Thuss will show slides of the construction of St. Luke's Church from the clearing of the land until the building was erected.

"Sandra and the Memphis Beats" consisting of Steve Vandenberg at the piano and George Castell, Alex Butt, David Bruce, and Ronald Davidson will present several selections.

Silent Film Star, Local Native, Dies

ORMOND BEACH, Fla. (AP)

—Georgia W. Moralis, former silent movie and vaudeville actress known as Kathleen Devoie, died at her home here Thursday.

She was 79.

Born in Cumberland, Md., she began acting at age 14 and played a leading role in Cecil de Mille's silent films Squaw Woman, God's Country and a Woman and Ringmaster.

As the wife of actor Jack Moralis, she was part of a dance and acrobatic team which toured the United States and Canada in the 1920s. She is survived by her husband and one daughter, Mrs. Alberta Brown of Mt. Rainier, Md.

The Corporals won over the Sergeants by 461 pins in the final rolloff this week.

Members of the Corporals are Mrs. Mary Zembower, Mrs. Roberta Conn, Mrs. Ovelia Walker, Guy Shaffer, Rodger Norris and Richard Reid.

Sergeant members are Mrs. Mary Edminston, Mrs. Shirley Lashley, Mrs. Bernadine Grove, Charles (Bud) Griffith, Earl Thompson and Thomas Hardinger.

Reservations To Be Made

Table reservations for the "Golf Ball" dance being sponsored by the Women's Golf Association of the Cumberland Country Club are to be made by May 6. The dance will be May 8 at the club.

The reservations are being taken by Mrs. Bruce Douglas, phone 724-4338, and Mrs. A. Harry Smith Jr., 722-4324.

Church Women Fellowship Meeting To Be May 7

Conforming with the theme of the Federation of United Church Women, "People, Poverty, Plenty," Mrs. Charles L. Kopp will speak on "The Least of These" at the business meeting of the Cumberland Council of Church Women. She will discuss poverty in Allegany County.

The meeting will be conducted by Mrs. Charles Hoelzel at 10 a.m. May 7, preceding the fellowship luncheon of the United Church Women of Cumberland, which will be at First Presbyterian Church at 12:30 p.m. Mrs. E. E. Miller is chairman.

Table flowers are being arranged by Mrs. J. Donald Gibson, Mrs. Coit Speicher, Mrs. Charles Isminger, Mrs. Cromwell Zembower is chairman of ushers, whom she will select from each church. Tickets may be purchased from Mrs. Robert W. Young, Mrs. L. W. Wendt or Mrs. Ralph Hoelzel.

Prayer will be offered by Rev. Emil Teyssier, of the host church. Mrs. Bryce Shoemaker will introduce the afternoon speaker, Mrs. Uvelia S. S. Bowen, Philadelphia. The program also will include two piano duets by Mrs. John A. Weissenflub and Mrs. Ivan Hall.

Auxiliary Honors Members

The Sacred Heart Hospital Auxiliary entertained with a luncheon in honor of the nursing group, Mrs. John Deakin and Mrs. William J. Welsh, who are leaving Cumberland soon.

Mrs. Robert M. Bruce commended the group for the work for the auxiliary and the two women for their contribution to the volunteer program.

Twenty-five members attended the luncheon at the nurses home. It was catered by the hospital dietary department under the supervision of the hospital food management.

The Allegany Homemakers Chorus will have rehearsal Monday at Central YMCA for the program to be given at Achievement Day, Wednesday at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club. All taking part are to be there.

Hair Styling Film To Be Tomorrow

A hair styling workshop, scheduled for tomorrow, has been canceled. Instead the Styling Body of the Allegany County Unit 225 Cosmetologists will sponsor a film, "Realistic Hair Styling."

It is to be shown at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, by the Emerson Company of York, Pa.

Reports from the state executive board meeting will be given by Mrs. Virginia Nave at the regular business session which also will be held at the hotel May 10.

All cosmetologists of the area are invited to see the film tomorrow.

Officers Named

Three officers of the Newcomers Club were elected at the recent meeting. Mrs. Michael Golt and Mrs. Evan Gailey were named first and second vice presidents; and Mrs. William Marley, treasurer. A donation of $200 was voted to Allegany Community College scholarship fund.

Mrs. William McKee, landscape artist from Smith Gardens, was guest speaker.

Junior Club To Elect

Election of officers will be held and committee chairmen will give their reports at the general meeting of the Junior Woman's Civic Club, to be held Wednesday at the club house.

Nominees for the 1965-66 year are Mrs. Bertram Friedland, Mrs. Edward Mason for president; Mrs. Ronald Chapman, Mrs. Bernie Coberly, for vice president; Mrs. Carl McAlouse, treasurer; Mrs. Donald Paupe, recording secretary; Mrs. Jerry Butcher, Mrs. John Diamond corresponding secretary. The election will be under the direction of Mrs. Leslie Clark, chairman of the nominating committee.

Hostesses for the evening are Mrs. Butcher, Mrs. Willard Guthrie, Mrs. David Miller and Mrs. Coberly.

AAUW Invites Public To See Three Films

In connection with Cumberland Branch AAUW annual art show, three color films will be shown today at 3 p.m. at Allegany Community College. The films are free to the general public. Mrs. J. M. Lutton reports. She points out that they are of interest to elementary, junior high and high school students, as well as to adults.

These prize winning films are "The Loon's Necklace," "Glosscap's Country," and "The Red Balloon."

"The Loon's Necklace" is a dramatization of a North American Indian legend about how the loon got its white neckband. Authentic ceremonial masks of striking color and design carved by the Indians of British Columbia establish the characters and convey the Indians' responses to the moods of nature.

In "Glosscap's Country," the natural beauty of Nova Scotia sunrises, storms, sunlit waters, wildflowers, gulls, loons and small animals are used to illustrate an ancient Indian legend of the region.

"The Red Balloon" is a fantasy of a boy who makes friends with a balloon. "Tames" it, plays with it in the streets of Montmartre and tries unsuccessfully to elude a gang of urchins who try to destroy it.

Exhibits for the art show will be accepted by the college librarian tomorrow from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Club Elects

Mrs. Anna Dawson was elected president of the Past Councils Club 2, Pride of Allegany Council 110, D of A. Serving with her are Mrs. Stella Bennett, vice president; Mrs. Marie Dawson, treasurer; Mrs. Iris Dawson, secretary; and Mrs. Freda Resil, publicity.

The Scripture was read by Mrs. Agnes Cox. A social followed. May 19, the group will meet at the home of Mrs. Marie Dawson, 683 Fayette Street.

Secrets Of Charm

Add Variety To Diet, Keep It Balanced, Too!

Variety is the spice of a meal, but a meal should not be too spicy! Whether you desire to lose or gain weight, foods should be moderately seasoned, buttered and sugared. While this is especially important for the reducer, it's a safeguard for the sturdy health and lovely complexions of the entire family.

Today's "Beauty Diet" and the five preceding ones not only make it possible for you to control your figure, gain or lose at will, but they also give you the balanced, tempting foods that promote health, sparkle and beauty. If you missed the other menus, or would like additional copies, address your request to John Robert Powers, BEAUTY DIET, c/o this newspaper, enclosing 10c in coin and a stamped, self-addressed large (#10) envelope.

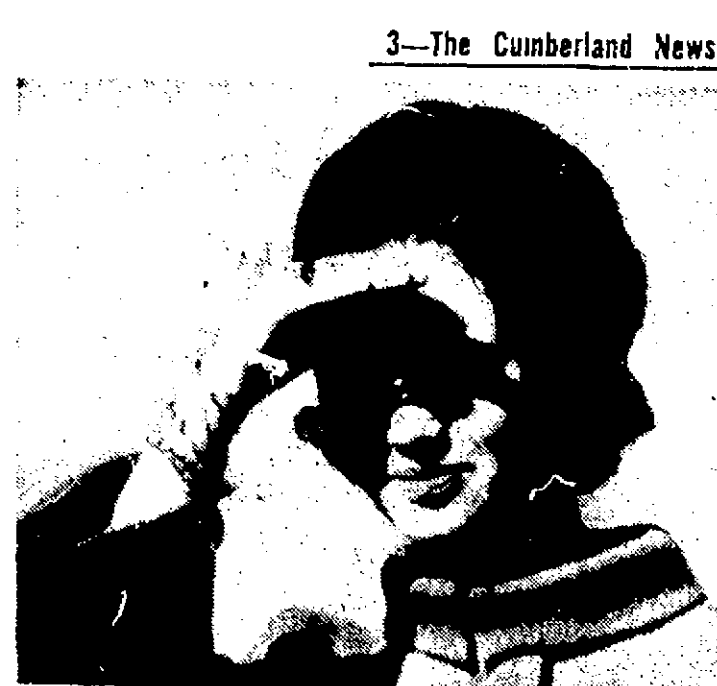

Here are the keys to figure control for use with today's beauty menu for the whole family: Foods plus (+) are for the underweight adult and normal adolescent only. Foods crossed (X) must be eliminated for losing weight. Foods minus (-) must be halved in quantity to lose. For maintaining present weight follow the basic menu, omitting snacks.

Flower Cutting Exchange May 20

A nominating committee was named and a flower cutting exchange was planned at the "Achievement Day" luncheon held by the Mapleside Homemakers Club prior to the regular meeting in First Brethren Church.

The committee, composed of Mrs. Wesley Taylor, Mrs. Frank White, and Mrs. Albert Beckman, is to name a vice president and secretary.

A flower cutting exchange will be held in conjunction with the meeting May 20. Announcement was made of the meeting of the reading club, which will be May 11 at 1:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. James Smith.

The flag salute was led by Mrs. Anna Morin. The history of the hymn, "All Glory, Laud and Honor" was given by Mrs. Taylor, who also led the group singing of it and "The Old Rugged Cross." Routine reports were given by Mrs. Fred Driscoll and Mrs. James Weakley. Mrs. Karl Taschenberger gave the sunshine report. Mrs. Smith announced she has tickets for the County Achievement Day luncheon, to be held May 5 at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club.

A variety of achievements were displayed. They included quilts, afghans, rugs, marble and macaroni plaques, wool woven hats, liquid embroidery pillow cases, aprons and articles of clothing.

4-H Will Take Part In Service

Members of the Flintstone-Polish Mountain 4-H Club will participate in the "Rural Life" services tomorrow at Flintstone Methodist Church.

Plans were formulated at the meeting conducted by Nancy Robinette at the school. A discussion was held on possibilities of a club tour during the summer. The members were in favor of going to Hershey, Pa.

Roll call was answered with demonstration tips. Jennifer McCray gave a demonstration on toys for a small child. Girls volunteered to participate in a demonstration at the meeting May 27. Ann Heavner and Jan Hartsock were in charge of the recreation.

Society To Honor Graduates

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of First Methodist Church will hold its annual spring covered dish supper May 7. It will be at the church at 6 p.m. High school graduates and their parents will be guests of honor.

The graduates are Richard Baisley, Russell Bramon, Linda Brill, Rodney Horning, Linda Lowe, Karen James, David Paul, Barbara Phillips, Paul Runyan, Georgia Sherman, William Tucker, Allegany High and Karen Mort, Port Hill.

Robert Peace, physical education director for the county, will be the guest speaker.

Following the program, the society will hold the regular business session, at which time the officers will be installed and a pledge service will be conducted.

Convention Delegates Appointed

Delegates to the convention to be held at McConie June 10 were named at the meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Oldtown Volunteer Firemen. They are Mrs. Anne Dixon, Mrs. Kalis Ross, Mrs. Mable Evans, Mrs. Mary Rader, Mrs. Katherine Zembower, Mrs. Ivy Carder and Mrs. Nellie Rader.

Mrs. Grace Crabtree conducted the meeting at the fire hall. Following prayer, the flags salute was led by Mrs. Dixon. Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Ross gave routine reports. Mrs. Mildred Herschuth and Mrs. Rader reported on the success of the bake sale earlier in the month. It was decided for the auxiliary to sell name and address labels as a project. Mrs. Zembower gave the sunshine report.

County dues were paid and Mrs. Dixon appointed historian. Plans were discussed for a spaghetti supper in May, the date to be selected. Announcement was made of the men's auction sale, which will be held June 19. Following the Lord's Prayer, refreshments were served by Mrs. Grace Crabtree. Eight members attended.

Social Chart

Ruckus Over The War On Poverty

Citizens in Cleveland and Chicago are making angry charges against the local officials who are directing the federal anti-poverty programs in those cities. This gives the whole nation a chance to see the opportunities—and pitfalls—in the President's war on poverty.

Beginning with the Appalachia program, the federal plan is being set up to give much authority to local officials. It is they, not their Congressmen or federal officials, who will have the deciding voice on what programs shall be instituted, where they will be, and how extensive they will be.

This should please those who favor local control.

Local control of the anti-poverty program could conceivably be translated someday to other federal programs, making a complete turn-about in the trend toward centralized control. But local control has to work. If local areas let politicians manipulate the program for their own purposes, they might see control yanked back to Washington.

It's up to the people in every area of the country to see that the anti-poverty program is administered honestly, wisely, and for the benefit of the poverty-stricken.

Babson's View

By Roger W. Babson

Financial Planning

BABSON PARK—We are approaching the big season for weddings. When a young man and woman get married, they become, in a very special sense, two different people—particularly in terms of basic responsibility to one another and to the new home they are establishing. But it is often difficult to convince newlyweds that there ARE positive steps that should be taken right away, even though these steps may seem inconsequential to them in their new happiness.

Even before the marriage, while the bride-to-be is floating on a cloud of wedding planning and anticipation, the young man will do well to begin building a "family" economic and financial program. To wait until later is a great mistake, though it admittedly is the easy way out that many young lovers follow. Perhaps first on the list should be a careful and mutual decision on where to start their lives together. Marriage counselors generally favor a small, efficient apartment at a realistic rental for newlyweds, especially if the bride intends to continue, or to start, working. This will leave ample time for the days of early adjustment when extraordinary burdens should be held to a minimum.

Once the knot is tied, the young groom should supervise changeovers of various sorts, but not without the assistance and co-operative understanding of his wife. If either of them has life insurance, an immediate change should be made in the beneficiaries, —and it is a good idea to indicate any surviving children of the marriage as beneficiaries after the spouse, even though there are no children at the time. Most policies make provision for this to ensure that the money will go to a chosen person rather than into the estate of a beneficiary who pre-deceased the insured.

Young people seem to think they are going to live forever, but parents or grandparents should point out to their air-borne youngsters that to draw a will is a sign of maturity and intelligent responsibility. Newlyweds are likely to feel that they haven't enough to bother with yet, so they'll draw their wills later on. But they usually have a great deal more than they realize,—and there are such "would-never-happen-to-us" things as transportation accidents that could bring tragedy. Better to make out wills early, then forget them; no need to dwell upon death, but foolish to deny its inevitability. Use the family lawyer; or get another good one and stick with him.

Title should be changed on bank accounts, real estate, stocks, and bonds. Make out a list of organizations or people that should be informed at once of a new address, change in marital status, and married name of the wife. It will surprise many young couples how complicated the list may be: Employers (there are sometimes extra benefits for married workers such as extra insurance, maternity leaves for wives, etc.), banks, brokers, business associations, charge account stores, auto licensing and registration bureaus, the Social Security office, unions, credit unions, the draft board, and periodical publications offices. And probably many more.

If a young couple starts off from the very first with a budget mutually decided upon, a lot of headaches will be avoided. A key part of the budget should be outlays for a family financial program. It is an excellent idea to have a joint checking account so that both partners can see exactly where their income is going, and note how realistic their budget may be. Also, cancelled checks are good evidence for income-tax deductions. Young marrieds should be warned, however, that a living budget should be the key to sensible spending and not a strait jacket that permits no leeway in the direction of more gracious, more companionable family life.

Communist Influence On Campuses Increases

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The Communist influence on the campus in American universities and colleges has increased so substantially in recent months that it now has become an important factor in the organizing of student demonstrations.

The Communists have actually profited by the "free speech" doctrine which, through Supreme Court decisions, has been given preference over the right of the American people to be protected against speeches on the campus inspired by members of alien organizations that are financed directly or indirectly by the Soviet government or its agents in this country.

The most outspoken comment on the whole subject from the educational world has just come from Dr. James M. Nabrit Jr., president of Howard University here, which is one of the leading Negro institutions in the country. He explicitly blamed on "external disruptive forces" the recent unrest at the Howard campus. He said in a statement:

"They are people who cloak themselves in the mantle of civil rights and plot and plan in secret to disrupt our fight for justice and full citizenship. They must be unmasked for the frauds they are. They must be fought in every arena, and they must not be permitted to prevail."

At a news conference later, Dr. Nabrit said he was referring to an organization which had backed a campus demonstration. Dr. Nabrit stated that on one occasion he saw two well known Communists in the student group's picket lines. He noted that the demonstrations thus far have been within university regulations, but he warned that he would not "sit idly by and see the university become a place of lawlessness and disorder."

It is surprising that the House Committee on Un-American Activities has not exposed Communist participation in various demonstrations. Maybe this is due to sensitivity about possible criticism that the committee was perhaps trying to discredit the movement for civil rights. Actually, it is fully understood that the Communists are by no means the originators of the civil rights controversy or of the use of street demonstrations of protest. Yet there have been instances in which these same demonstrations have been pushed to extremes through Communist influence. And it is this which can hurt the cause of civil rights, especially when idealistic students are brainwashed by Communist organizers.

The Communist Party in this country is beginning to work more and more out in the open.

Originally its members were ordered to register with the Attorney General under the Internal Security Act of 1950, but court decisions during 1964 on some sections of the law were considered so favorable by the Communist Party that its leaders now feel there is a good possibility that all the provisions of this act will be nullified. For this reason, the Communists are optimistic of the future of their party and are beginning to speak out with the same defiance that was characteristic of them in the past.

Although the Communist Party has for years been trying to hide its connection with the Soviet Union, it nevertheless announced that it would send a delegation this year to Moscow to participate in an editorial conference there on the international Communist movement.

Leading members of the Communist Party are encouraged by the vast number of invitations they are receiving to speak at universities and colleges throughout the country. These give them the opportunity to spread the party line, obtain recruits, and promote their claim that the Communist Party is just another political party on the American scene. The Communist leaders say they are receiving more requests to speak than they can possibly fulfill.

Congress can, of course, revise the existing statute and make it more specific, as certainly a legal distinction can be drawn between political parties which operate solely within this country without aid from abroad and those which have a direct connection with a foreign government.

Leaders of Negro organizations have repeatedly said that, while there may be Communist groups active in the racial controversy, they are not in any way influential. But information reaching government sources here indicates that the tactics and techniques of the Communists are not always apparent even to Negro leaders, and that the real purpose of the Communists is to force the demonstrations into extremes so as either to provoke violence or to plunge the whole racial question into more and more bitter controversy.

More than a year ago, J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, warned college presidents throughout the country of "an organized attempt by foreign money to disrupt the universities of America." He also said that many colleges have provided some avowed Communists with "a platform from which to espouse their godless ideology of chicanery, deceit and treachery."

ROBOT WRITERS — There's more than one way to skin a cat, or sign endless reams of letters and documents. The newest, and most secret way, is via automation.

A $1,200 machine is on the market that automatically and perfectly duplicates any signature endless numbers of times. All the owner has to do is to write his signature once and the machine copies it flawlessly, by guiding a regular pen along the same lines.

Most politicians don't want to talk about them. After all, the whole idea is to create the illusion that the signer took enough time out of his busy day to personally affix his signature to that letter you got in reply to yours.

These writing robots have been known to crop up in the strangest places — Senators' offices and even in the White House. One handwriting expert said he was sure one of the contraptions had been used by the late President Kennedy.

The only way to detect one is to get two signatures from the same official. Unlike a genuine signature, which varies somewhat with each signing, the machine duplicates identically. If you get two signatures and they match perfectly, you know it was $1,200 and not an official doing the writing.

One Senator openly admits to having one of the monsters. He is Joseph S. Clark, of Pennsylvania. What's more, Clark has his gadget geared to writing three signatures — his full moniker, "Joe Clark" for friends, and "Joe" for real buddies.

Cause, Treatment Elusive In Restless Legs

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dallen

J. B. writes: "When I get into bed, my legs twitch and ache. It is difficult to describe except that they are jittery. Have you any suggestions on cause and cure?" This sounds like the poorly understood syndrome of restless legs.

The condition commences when the legs are still, as when lying in bed at night or while sitting through a boring movie or long train ride. Discomfort lessens when the lower extremities are moved and complete relief is obtained when the individual stands and walks.

Distress is felt in both legs and occasionally in the thighs. Most victims find it difficult to localize the exact bothersome spot. Some complain of aching whereas others describe a feeling of pulling, drawing, numbness, tingling, or prickling. A few complain of a creeping or crawling sensation as though ants were under the skin.

It is a vague feeling in the legs prior to falling asleep, a restless discomfort or incessant fidgeting.

Many are victims of chronic discomfort elsewhere. They are bothered with insomnia, backache, or irritable colon. Others are plagued with anxieties, tension, or depression. We do not know whether a relationship exists between these emotional disturbances and restless legs because some victims are not nervous.

Many remedies have been tried but none with complete success. These include aspirin, iron, sedatives, alcohol, hypnotics, and drugs that improve circulation. The individual often finds temporary relief by massaging the extremities, kicking into the air, lying on the back and peddling the feet in the air, or assuming the prone position and moving the legs. The lack of a remedy is discouraging but not serious, because no one is crippled or dies from the syndrome.

UNCOMMON DIABETES
K. J. R. writes: I have had diabetes insipidus since the age of 12 and now am 48. Is there a cure?

REPLY
This type of diabetes is continued easily (but seldom cured) with one of three posterior pituitary extracts. The hormone may be administered in different ways, varying from hypodermic injections to spraying into the nose. Cure is obtained when a cause is found that can be corrected.

WRONG NICHE

L. S. writes: What does it mean when a person is called a square peg in a round hole?

REPLY

In its broadest sense, the expression refers to a person who is not doing that for which he is best suited. When a natural born salesman takes up bookkeeping, he may find he has no aptitude for this work and becomes a square peg in a round hole.

AGE AND CANCER

Mrs. V. J. writes: At what age are most malignant tumors found?

REPLY

Some cancers are more prevalent in childhood; others, later in life. On the other hand, if we take an average age for all types of malignancies, I presume it is the decade between 45 and 55, earlier in women and later in men.

AND HOW?

B. K. writes: Is it natural to feel weak for three or four days after an attack of diarrhea?

REPLY

And how!

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dallen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Senators Dilute Cigarette Warning; Rep. Rogers Stalls C&O Park Bill

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — On the same day that Ed Murrow, famed CBS broadcaster, died of lung cancer, the Senate Commerce Committee finally okayed a watered-down bill to require a health warning on cigarettes, thereby preventing others from dying of lung cancer.

Sen. Maurine Neuberger, D-Ore., whose husband died of cancer, authored the bill. It was trimmed down a bit by Sen. Warren Magnuson, from the rival state of Washington, who smokes cigars, not cigarettes.

Magnuson's changes were love pats, however, compared with the strange roadblock proposed by a Congressman from the panhandle of Texas, Walter Rogers of Pampa. Rogers has introduced a bill which would prevent the Federal Trade Commission from exercising its duties under the law of regulating cigarette advertising.

Just as Ed Murrow was dying, the gentleman from Pampa, Tex., was pushing his bill to prevent the Trade Commission from trying to keep others from dying.

Madison Avenue's Champion
The public doesn't know it, but Rogers has a strange record for a Congressman who lives so far away from Madison Avenue.

When the big advertising agencies on Madison Avenue want a job done in Congress they seem to gravitate not to a Manhattan Congressman but all the way down to Pampa, Tex., where Rep. Rogers dutifully goes to bat for them.

Once before when the Federal Communications Commission got aroused over misleading, distasteful TV commercials used by Madison Avenue and was about to regulate the vastly unregulated television industry, Madison Avenue reached down to Pampa, and Rep. Rogers rallied to its defense. He introduced a bill forbidding the FCC from regulating TV commercials.

Another interesting sideline of Rep. Rogers is preventing recreation areas, far distant from Texas, from being developed.

Last week, Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall, plus Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas and Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., led an army of outdoor enthusiasts along the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal to emphasize that this waterway, originally proposed by George Washington, be preserved.

They would better have marched to the office of Rep. Rogers of Pampa, because he is the man who has blocked a bill to make the C & O Canal a national park.

Another Texan, now in the White House, has been the big promoter of canals all the way from Texas to the Mekong River in Viet Nam. As President, he has ordered the restoration of the C & O Canal. But the other Texan from Pampa has done his best to block its becoming a park.

Regulating Light Bulbs

With President Johnson turning off unnecessary lights in the White House, the taxpayers will be happy to learn that military light bulbs are now under the "consolidated management" of the Navy. This leaked out when Rep. Dan Flood D-Pa., demanded to know at a closed-door appropriations meeting if the military had "stabilized the problem" on light fixtures and lamps.

"Two years ago somebody bought enough light bulbs for 1,000 years," declared Flood. "What do you do about bulbs of different wattages? And what about the bulbs of all wattages and all colors? Are they bought like hamburgers?"

"I remember the case you speak of," replied Vice Admiral J. M. Lyle. "I presume the transfer to us for integrated or consolidated management was the result of that criticism by the General Accounting Office."

"Yes, we have the bulbs. We have them under consolidated management. I hope by the time we check the next time there will not be 41 years supply."

"I hope you get your hopes," observed the Congressman from Pennsylvania.

Cussing Wayne Morse

Behind the refusal of President Johnson to join some of his Cabinet in taking an indirect potshot at Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon for being critical of LBJ's Vietnamese policy is an ancient understanding between the onetime Senator from Texas and the present Senator from Oregon.

They have battled vigorously in the past, still do, but have a genuine respect for each other's convictions.

Some years ago, when Wayne Morse was speaking in Austin, he told his Texas audience: "One of your Senators, Price Daniel, represents the oil companies. The other Senator, Lyndon Johnson, represents only himself."

Lyndon has the reputation of being thin-skinned about criticism. But shortly thereafter, when Wayne Morse was running for re-election, the Senator from Texas came to a luncheon held to launch Morse's campaign and paid tribute to Wayne as one of the most effective members of the Senate.

More recently, when Morse engineered the administration's education bill through the Senate without a single solitary amendment, LBJ paid tribute to him again. Vice President Humphrey concurred: "You can't beat Wayne Morse," he said. "You may cuss him. You may disagree with him. But if you want a job done, just give it to Wayne. He's a great man."

This was one reason why President Johnson, queried at his press conference about critics of his Vietnamese policy, did not criticize the critics.

Norman Holds Forth

By John Crosby

LONDON
I haven't read Norman Mailer's latest novel, "An American Dream." In fact, I haven't read much of anything Mailer has written since "The Naked and the Dead," because — well, because I've been so busy reading about Mr. Mailer, there's been no time.

Mr. Mailer is the unquestioned leader of the new kind of author who is more written about than read. In the Sunday Times, Mr. Mailer was granted an eight-column, full-page interview, which went on seven hours and ended somewhat incoherently at 3:45 a. m. Not even Prime Ministers get that much space in the Sunday papers. As if that weren't enough, Cyril Connolly was assigned in the same paper the prickly task of reviewing the book, which he described as a "confessional horror comic" but "superbly written" (some of it, John Coleman in the Observer was more single-minded: "Appallingly bad... embarrassing").

Buoyed by these encomiums, Mailer showed up Sunday night at what was described as a reading before a frightfully hip audience which included people like Jonathan Miller, Ken Tynan, bevis of beautiful girls with long blonde hair carefully ironed in the latest fashion, and a sprinkling of Negroes of both colors and all three sexes.

The meeting was presided over by Malcolm Muggeridge, the professional ikon-breaker of the New Statesman and other publications, who immediately said he didn't know what he was doing there, taking the words out of all our mouths. He then congratulated Mr. Mailer for attracting the unqualified loathing of Robert Pittman, the book reviewer of the Sunday Express, who had devoted yards of space to saying that Mr. Mailer's novel was "violent nonsense... revolting."

Without further (as they say) ado, Mr. Mailer came on and read. He read a poem called "My flesh must smell like an old tire. My sex is bitter and gone..." and then we all filed out, the boys and girls sniffling at each other with uncontrolled violence.

My flesh must smell like an old tire. My sex is bitter and gone...

And then we all filed out, the boys and girls sniffling at each other with uncontrolled violence.

Allegany Ends Valley Streak, 9-5; Bruce Stalled By Beall, 3-0

LaSalle Pounds 'Savage, 15-6; Fort Hill Breezes

Steve Vandenberg, In First Appearance, Whiffs 14 Knights

COUNTY STANDINGS	W.	L.	Pct.
Valley	4	1	.800
Beall	3	1	.750
Fort Hill	2	1	.667
Bruce	2	2	.500
LaSalle	1	2	.333
St. Luke's	1	2	.333
Oldtown	0	4	.000

Defeat reared its ugly head for the first time yesterday for Valley's Allegany County Interscholastic League pace-setting baseball team as the Black Knights were whipped by Allegany on the Lonaconing Field, 9-5.

In other county contests yesterday, Beall shut out Bruce, 3-0; LaSalle walloped Mt. Savage, 15-6; and Fort Hill throttled Oldtown, 12-2.

Steve Vandenberg, making his first appearance on the mound this year, burst the Valley bubble of invincibility with a nifty nine-hit, fourteen-strikeout performance; and, though he was shaky at times, Valley's shoddy fielding and giveaway pitching was more than enough to keep the Campers in control.

Alco jumped off to a 6-0 lead in the first inning, and the Campers batters didn't even have to swing a bat in anger. Valley treated them to four free passes, two errors, and a passed ball, while two more Allegany runners reached base by being hit by pitched balls in the ninth inning.

Wamsley Finishes Up

Chuck Smith, Valley's starting pitcher, left without retiring a single batter and was charged with the loss. Charley Wamsley finished up for Valley and allowed only three hits, one of them a double by Vandenberg.

Keith Schell of Beall High outduelled Bruce's John Prado at Frostburg to lead the Mountaineers to a 3-0 win and a second-place tie with Allegany. Schell allowed two hits, while Prado gave up only three bingles.

Bruce notched both of its hits in the fifth inning as Patton and G. Miller garnered singles. Bernad Conner's brilliant fielding play in that inning prevented Bruce from breaking up the shut-out.

Barney Pike Socks Double

Beall scored its first two runs in the first inning on Ronnie Beebeck's walk, a fielder's choice, errors on ground balls hit by Barney Pike and Conner, and Pike's stolen base. The third run came in the bottom of the fourth on Pike's double, the only extra base smack of the game, a passed ball, and Conner's bingle.

A bases-loaded single by Rick Beebeck with two out in the sixth inning added insult to injury as Fort Hill rapped Oldtown at Fort Hill field for its fifth loss in the league this year. Beebeck also had a triple, while Jim Mertens smashed a home run.

Mertens home run was a grounder down the right field line with two men on base. Mike Baker, who came into the game just in time to get the benefit of eleven Fort Hills runs in the last three innings, was the winning pitcher, while Howard Youngblood absorbed the loss.

Perlozzo Take Win

Left-hander Spunk Perlozzo twirled the first four innings for LaSalle at Municipal Field to receive credit for his first win of the year. Bobby Seibert finished up on the hill.

Seibert had five runs batted in for the Explorers, while Arthur "Pooch" Femi had four. Seibert rapped a homer, double, and a single, Femi blasted a triple and two singles. Altogether, the Explorers amassed a total of 13 safeties, one of them Denny McCormick's round-tripper.

George Shaffer and Larry Birmingham led Mt. Savage's ten-hit assault with four and three blows, respectively. Shaffer had a pair of two-baggers.

St. Luke's Cagers Honored At Dinner

The Sunday Church School of the St. Luke's Lutheran Church entertained the St. Luke's basketball team Thursday night in the Church Fellowship Hall. The Tamed Bible Class served a spaghetti dinner to the following members of the team and their families: Robert Nave, Joe Baker, Mike Twigg, Dale Smith, Lee Bennett, Edward Dickerhoff, Scott Carroll, James Daum, Donald Shout, Ronald Smith, Charles Larkin, Gary Smith, Kenneth Lintz, Gilbert Bennett, Kevin McCray, John Palmer.

The Rev. Vernon I. Naugle was the master of ceremonies for the dinner and delivered the invocation.

A trophy was presented to Robert Nave for scoring the most points in the American Division. Medallions of the Lutheran Church were presented to the boys from the Sunday Church School. Trophies were awarded to Vernon Shout and Billy Shout.

The coaches are Vernon Shout and Donald Shout.

Arnold Palmer Clings To Lead Of Two Strokes

Rodriguez, Sanders Trail With 137s

By JAMES C. ANDERSON UPI Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — A determined Arnold Palmer fired a three-under-par 69 Friday to cling to a two-stroke lead over a star-studded field of golfers at the end of the second round of the $75,000 Tournament of Champions.

Battling a stiff breeze that sent most scores soaring and fighting off challenges from Juan (Chi Chi) Rodriguez and Doug Sanders, two of the best wind players on the PGA tour, Palmer birdied two of the last four holes to post a 36-hole total of 135, nine under par at the halfway mark.

Palmer is out to break a winless streak that has lasted for 19 tournaments and the way he battled back, after being tied at one point with Rodriguez and Sanders, has made the bookmakers rate him almost an even money bet.

The Latrobe, Pa., slugger who won this event in 1962, had four birdies against a single bogey to post a fine 69 on the 7,209-yard Desert Inn Country Club course. He had putts of 12, 15 and five feet for birdies and got on the five-par first hole in two for another bird.

Rodriguez Posts 67

However, Rodriguez came in with a sparkling 67 and Sanders posted a 68 with a birdie finish to move in contention. Sanders had an opening round 69 and Rodriguez, 70. Both are known for their ability to hit low screamers in to the wind and both said they hoped the gusty breezes of up to 25 miles an hour would continue in the final two rounds.

Still in contention for the $14,000 first prize money were Billy Casper Jr., Sam Snead, the 52-year-old golfing marvel, and Australia's Bruce Champ. All stood at 139, four shots back of Palmer, with Snead and Casper posting a, ne-under-par 71 and Crumpton firing a two-under-par 70.

The rest of the field, composed originally of 26 winners of Professional Golfer Association sanctioned tournaments in the past year, was far back and apparently out of contention. Defending champion Jack Nicklaus had a one-under 71, but stood at 145, 10 shots behind Palmer.

Sikes Trails By Seven

Dick Sikes, golf's rookie of the year in 1964, had a 74 to go with his opening 68 and was at 142, seven strokes back. From there, it dropped to 143—a bracket shared by Miller Barber, Bob Chambers, Chuck Courtney, Rod Funseth and George Knudson.

Four Sentenced To Institutions In Crime Spree

Suspended Terms Are Not Granted

Four Frostburg area teenagers who pleaded guilty to a total of five different crimes in crimes which occurred within a four-and-one-half hour period in March were given sentences of one to four years in Maryland institutions yesterday afternoon by Associate Judge James S. Getty in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Three of the boys pleaded guilty yesterday morning to all five counts. James Edward Binnix, 17, of 120 McCulloh Street, Frostburg, pleaded not guilty to the second count, breaking into St. Michael's Catholic Church about 12:30 a. m. March 23, and it was established that he did not enter the church. This count was dismissed insofar as Binnix was concerned.

The stiffest penalties adding up to four years in the Maryland Correctional Institution for Men in neighboring Washington County and the Maryland House of Correction were imposed upon the oldest and youngest boys.

Four-Year Sentences

Recipients of the sentences adding up to four years were Benjamin Blaine Preston, 19, of 127 South Water Street, Frostburg, and Harold Walter Crawford, 16, of Klondike. First of the five counts was petit larceny of a nine-quart keg of beer from Stoops Restaurant in Frostburg about 10:30 p. m. March 22. All four went to a field and drank the beer until about midnight, according to State's Attorney Donald W. Mason.

The second count was breaking into St. Michael's Church which occurred about 12:30 a. m. March 23. The state's attorney said Crawford forced the front doors and the others except Binnix entered. There was no interior damage to the church as the three boys apparently were simply looking for money and found none.

Count No. 3 was breaking into Beall Elementary School in Frostburg. Here, State's Attorney Mason said, Crawford kicked out a basement window and all four crawled in. Crawford also threw a chair through an inside locked glass door and all four went through the school.

The fourth count was the malicious destruction of property in the school. All four took food out of the cafeteria refrigerator and threw it over the fence, ransacked many other rooms, lockers and desks, and smeared paint on the desks and floors.

State's Attorney Mason said they also went to the gym where they tore down both the American and Maryland flags on the stage and threw them on the floor. Although he considers this extremely serious and inexcusable as well as an unpatriotic act, Mr. Mason pointed out that under the Maryland code they could not be charged because flag defacing must be done publicly to be a criminal offense. The boys were at the school about one-and-one-half hours and the estimate of damage placed by school officials was $375.

Take Car To Winchester

Count No. 5 was the unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Mr. Mason said the four boys walked from the school to Kowell's Motor Sales, 295 East Main Street, in Frostburg, where they found a 1965 model car with the keys in it. They drove it to Winchester, Va. In the vicinity of Winchester they stole two more cars and eventually brought the Kowell's vehicle back to Cumberland, where they left it at the Queen City Station about 6 a. m. From here they hitch-hiked back to Frostburg.

Judge Getty gave both Preston and Crawford consecutive terms, not to exceed six months each in the Correctional Institution on each of the first three counts. Another term not to exceed one year was added on the fourth count involving malicious destruction of school property. Finally, another 18 months in the House of Correction was added on the unauthorized use of the car. Because these sentences are consecutive the boys must serve the first 30 months involved in the first four sentences before they can be considered for probation.

Binnix received two consecutive one-year sentences for unauthorized use and malicious property destruction. He got up to six months more on both the third and first counts but these are concurrent with the up-to-one-year sentence destruction. He was acquitted of the church burglary. The sentence on the fifth count was in the House of Correction and the others in the Correctional Institution.

The lightest sentence of up to one year in the Correctional Institution on the malicious destruction of property was imposed upon Thomas Albert Klosterman Jr., 18, of Parkersburg Road, Eckhart.

Right To Sue In Church Tax Case Argued

Judges, Lawyers Air Basic Questions

By DAN DONAHUE

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two lawyers argued Friday whether a special, three-judge federal court has jurisdiction to hear a case challenging the exemption of church-owned businesses from the federal income tax.

Lemoin Cree of Baltimore, president of the Freechurch Society of America, and his wife, Maria, brought the suit as federal taxpayers against the United States and Irving Machiz, Maryland district director of the Internal Revenue Service.

The exemption applies to unrelated businesses like hotels, service stations and publishing houses. The Creees contend this is unconstitutional because it increases the tax burden of themselves and all other federal taxpayers.

As a result of the exemption, they said, they are deprived of due process of law under the Fifth Amendment, equal protection of the laws under the Ninth Amendment and the right to free exercise of religion under the First Amendment.

The government, seeking dismissal of the suit, contends tax collection is based on individual income, not the relation of one taxpayer's income to another.

Questions Argued

But preliminary questions, not the merits of the law, were argued for 1½ hours before Judge Simon E. Sobeloff of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and Judges Roszel C. Thomson and R. Dorsey Watkins of U.S. District Court.

John Gobel of the Department of Justice Tax Division in Washington contended, and Leonard Kerpelman, Baltimore lawyer, for the Creees, denied that.

— The Creees are not taxpayers because they paid no taxes in 1963.

— The court has no jurisdiction to hear the case because the suit is not seeking $10,000 or more from the government.

— The Creees have no standing to sue on behalf of all taxpayers as a class because they can show no injury to themselves.

— A suit against the United States should not name Machiz as defendant because he is responsible only for Maryland.

— This is a suit against the district director and there is no one allegation against him," Gobel told the court.

Individual Or The U. S.?

"This is a suit against the United States. It cannot be made anything else by adding names of government officials. Thus it fails."

Kerpelman replied: "If the County Educators Fly To Air Force Academy

Five guidance teachers of public and Catholic high schools of Allegany and Garrett counties joined a group of instructors who flew to the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo., in the Maryland Educators Airlift.

Among the travelers who departed from Andrews Air Force Base at Washington was Brother Luke, principal and guidance teacher at LaSalle High School, who termed the visit "impressive" and said those who visited the Academy are much more informed on the study program.

Others who flew to the Academy from the two counties were John R. Snyder, Allegany High School; Ralph P. Wimer, Fort Hill; John D. Kelly, Beall High; and R. W. Morrow Jr., Northern High School, Garrett County.

Some 30 teachers flew to the Academy in a four-engine air-

Cresaptown Firemen To Install

Officers of the Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Company will be installed this evening during a dinner program which will begin at 7:30.

Fred Knobloch, publicity chairman for the volunteers said that David E. Kirk, past president of the Allegany-Garrett Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association will install the officers. A dance will follow.

The firefighters were called last night to a home on Fifth Avenue in that community where a grass fire caused minor damage and burned an evergreen tree near the house.

The volunteers received a call at 7:48 p.m. and were out until about 8:10 p.m. Some 19 men answered the call with two pieces of equipment.

Mr. Knobloch is reminding residents of the Cresaptown area to be mindful of the danger of brush fires and to use caution if they light off a brush fire.

Walters Appeals Assault Verdict

A former local man sentenced to five years in the Maryland Penitentiary on March 2 for assault has filed an appeal in the Maryland Court of Appeals. State's Attorney Donald W. Mason said the appeal was filed by Donald L. Walters, 26, formerly of 237 Poca Street, who was tried March 2 in Allegany County Circuit Court for assault and robbery of a local woman January 2 on Market Street Bridge.

Walters pleaded not guilty at the trial but was found guilty of the assault charge and was sentenced to five years by Associate Judge Harold E. Naughton. He was acquitted on the robbery count.

Mr. Mason said yesterday he had written a letter to City Police Chief B. F. Gaffney, personally commending Detective Thomas A. See, Sgt. Roy Hawse and Officer David Huff for their excellent investigation in connection with the case. He said the very thorough investigation conducted by these officers, particularly the tracing of footprints in the snow and the finding of certain pieces of physical evidence, and their excellent testimony, were important factors in the case.

Needy Patients Cost Hospitals Study Unit Finds

New Reimbursement System Proposed

By LOUIS G. PANOS

BALTIMORE (AP) — A special committee recommended Friday that Maryland hospitals be reimbursed fully for care given needy persons.

This might involve no change in the present formula of reimbursement, the committee told the State Board of Health and Mental Hygiene, but it should involve stronger application of that formula.

The plan now calls for the state and local governments to repay hospitals on an 80-20 per cent basis.

But the committee, headed by Dr. Russell A. Nelson, president of Johns Hopkins Hospital, said the hospitals are being short-changed three ways:

— Some counties don't assume their full 20 per cent burden.

— The state doesn't always appropriate enough money to meet its 80 per cent load.

— Sometimes hospital cost figures, upon which the reimbursement is based, are a year out of date and, therefore, lower than current costs.

In its interim report to the board at the monthly meeting of the state's top health officials, the committee said full reimbursement for the hospitals could result from:

— The use of current hospital cost figures.

— Full disclosure of these costs by the hospitals.

— Payment of "appropriate proportions" by the patient, local and state governments, and the federal government through matching funds.

Participation of all hospitals in the state program of medical aid for the indigent.

The board accepted the interim report, and Nelson said the committee's final report will be submitted by late summer. This would be in time for preparation of the health and mental hygiene department budget proposals for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1966.

In other actions, the board:

— Adopted changes in health regulations governing summer camps and places selling food and drink.

— Heard Health Commissioner William J. Peoples report that he and a top aide are meeting with medical society representatives to plan fuller, faster reporting of communicable diseases — especially syphilis, gonorrhea, tuberculosis and hepatitis.

Good News Club Rally Is Today

The Allegany County Child Evangelism Fellowship will sponsor its annual Good News Club rally today at 1 p. m. at the First Methodist Church, 1707 Frederick Street. The rally is for Good News Clubbers and their families and friends.

Miss Emma Pearl Hatfield, county director, said activities will include games, singing, a 40-minute film and other activities to show club achievements during the winter. The rally is open to the public.

Scottish Rite To Confer Degree

Cumberland Council, Scottish Rite Masons will confer the 30th degree on a class of candidates at the Masonic Temple, Greene Street, at 8:30 p.m. Monday.

Chest X-Ray Unit To Begin County Visits

First Stop Monday At Flintstone

The free chest X-ray mobile unit will begin operations in Allegany County next week. It will visit county areas through May 14 and Garrett County areas May 17 through May 21.

The unit is sponsored by the Allegany-Garrett County Health Departments and Tuberculosis Association.

The program is free for all persons 18 years of age and older. The TB association advises that all persons should have a chest X-ray, especially those individuals with a past history of pneumonia, influenza, pleurisy, or a history of chronic lung diseases.

Monday the unit will be at Flintstone School, 2 to 6 p.m.; Tuesday, White Oaks Shopping Center, 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., and at Oldtown School, 5 to 6:30 p.m.; Wednesday, Ellerslie Fire Hall, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., and Mt. Savage Fire Hall, 2:30 to 7 p.m.

On Thursday X-ray will be taken in front of Tots-To-Teens, North Centre Street, 11:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m., and Friday at the A & P Market, Winnow Street, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Volunteers assisting with the visits include, Mrs. J. S. Roland, Mrs. Broze Lough, Mrs. Lowell Hamons, Mrs. Vernon Shriver, Mrs. Edward Kolb, Flintstone; Mrs. Jo Sensesbaugh, Mrs. Maxine Squires, Mrs. Violet Smith, Mrs. Melissa Mullis, Mrs. Katherine Sulser, Mrs. Basie Evans, Mrs. Delores Cole and Mrs. Betty Walters, White Oaks and A & P.; Mrs. Marge Johnson, Mrs. Clara Williamson, Mrs. Elizabeth Nave, Mrs. Laura Aaron, Mrs. Blanche Clover, Mrs. Bertha Scollick, Mrs. Ruth Harman and Mrs. Virginia Chaney, Centre Street.

Assisting at the Ellerslie visit will be Mrs. Mary Cook, Mrs. Anna Mae Cook, at Mt. Savage; Mrs. Evelyn Crowe, Mrs. Ruth Lancaster, Mrs. Ruth Beal, Mrs. Virginia Crump, Mrs. Adeline Sherman, Mrs. Theodora Crouch, and at Oldtown, Mrs. Rose Lewis, Mrs. Thelma Cook and Mrs. Virginia Allen.

Scout Program Is Today

Adult Scouters who attend the all-day Showands at Camp Potomac today will see demonstrations of various camping skills that will be emphasized during the annual summer encampment of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Ernest Fauss, general chairman, said Dan Folk will be in charge of the fire building demonstration, Harrison Lewis, tent pitching; James Riley, Morse code; Fred Strausburg, canoe loading; Joe Monahan, packing the pack; Miles Thompson, map making; Larry Davis, rope making; Spencer Babb, edible wild plants, and Howard Ward, bean-hole beans.

In addition, there will be a woodcarving demonstration by Bill Allee. Assisting Thomas Struntz with the cookout lunch will be Harry Long and Jim McDonald.

The day's program will open at 10 a.m. and close after a summer camp planning session, which will start at 7 p.m. Attendance at the Showands is required for the Scouters Key award and is applicable for the year had not been picked up when she closed her office at 4 p.m.

Memorial, Park Area Damaged

While attempts are being made to beautify sections of the city, vandals are causing damage to the areas.

A spokesman for the Garden Club of Cumberland said last night that during the past winter a rose bush was stolen from the Helen Miller Memorial in Constitution Park.

She said the edging of the brick at the memorial was torn out and concrete in the small pool was shipped, quite a bit of work has been done on the memorial.

The area was beautified as a result of contributions from the public, and the Garden Club maintains the memorial. Parents are being asked to instruct their children not to destroy the area.

A spokesman at City Hall said yesterday afternoon that some of the flowers which were planted on upper Bedford Street have been torn out by vandals.

Large boys have been seen running back and forth across the area. The incidents have been reported to police.

Anyone caught damaging the area will be prosecuted, the spokesman said.

Ridgeley Has Problem With Stray Dogs

The Town of Ridgeley is having a problem with stray dogs. Police Chief Fred Robertson said last night the canines are running in packs and are causing damage to flower beds as well as annoying residents with their barking, especially at night.

Dog owners are being reminded that dogs must be kept penned up or on a leash. Those which are found roaming the streets of the town will be picked up and held for three days and destroyed if the owners do not show up to claim them.

FOP Plans Election

City Police Detective Captain James E. Van and Joseph Dornio, a member of the Frostburg Police Department, will be seeking the office of president of Fort Cumberland Lodge 90, Fraternal Order of Police, when its annual election is held at 7 p.m. on May 23 at the Guard Armory in Frostburg.

Officer Warren Brehm of the local police department, president of the group, said all other officers are unopposed in the election. William Valentine is vice president; Karl Helz, Frostburg, recording secretary; John Daum, financial secretary; Roy Hawse, treasurer; John Starkey, Frostburg, conductor; E. P. Wilson, chaplain; Charles Snider, Donald Griffith, chief of police at Frostburg, and Officer Brehm, trustees.

Refreshments will be served after the election.

Local Group To Attend State T.B. Meeting

The local office of the Allegany-Garrett County Tuberculosis Association, 129 South Liberty Street, will be closed Wednesday and Thursday so that the staff may attend the 61st annual meeting of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association in Pikesville.

Among those attending from here will be Mrs. Dorothy McKenty, executive secretary; Mrs. Gladys Meyers, office secretary; Charles See, president of the local association, and Miss Mary Margaret Smith, X-ray technician for Allegany County Health Department.

The program will include a symposium on tuberculosis test, the pros and cons, and a workshop on respiratory diseases. The annual business meeting will precede luncheon.

Wind-Felled Tree Kills Man Riding Tractor

Friendsville Man Is Victim

A Friendsville man was killed yesterday morning when a tree fell on him in a timberland off U.S. Route 40 near Markleysburg, Pa.

Clark M. Frazee, 67, was fatally injured when he was struck by a tree felled by a strong gust of wind while he was working a timber cut for his son, Emerson Frazee, owner of a sawmill near Markleysburg.

According to reports, Mr. Frazee was operating a tractor in the timber area while another man notched trees for cutting.

Just after a hollow tree was notched, a gust of wind blew the tree over on Mr. Frazee, who was seated on the tractor.

He sustained a crushed chest and other fractures, and was pronounced dead at the scene by an area physician.

He was born in Friendsville, a son of the late Jeffrey and Anna (Wable) Frazee.

Besides his son, Emerson, also of Friendsville, he is survived by his wife, Daisy (Vansickle) Frazee; another son, Charles Frazee, Youngstown, Ohio; four daughters, Mrs. Mabel Griffith, Addison, Pa.; Mrs. Bernice Rodenhaver, Friendsville; Mrs. Delores Miller and Mrs. Ruby Ryan, Youngstown; a brother, Ross Jenkins, Markleysburg; 10 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

He was a member of Asher Glade Church of the Brethren, where a service will be conducted Monday at 2 p.m. Rev. Joseph Lewis will officiate and interment will be in the church cemetery.

The body is at the residence in Friendsville.

Rocket Launch Slated Sunday

Those who are interested in space age progress are invited to a rocket launch which will be held tomorrow beginning at 2 p.m. at Maryland by members of the Science Club of LaSalle High School.

Brother James, FSC, teacher of science at the local school, will be in charge of the program.

He said members of the club have been conducting demonstrations at local parochial schools and Catholic high schools. Various phases of rocket launching have been explained by the high school students who are discouraging amateur rocketry for younger pupils but encouraging model rockets. The element of danger is being stressed by the club members during the school visits.

The club had an exhibit at the Science Fair which was held at Ursuline Academy, he said.

Zimmerman Next President Of Library Association

BALTIMORE (AP)—Election of John Zimmerman as president-elect and vice president of the Maryland Library Association was announced Friday at the group's annual meeting in Baltimore.

Zimmerman, director of libraries at Frostburg State College, will take over as president next year.

Other new officers announced, to be installed Saturday, included Miss Frances Fleming, Baltimore County, second vice president; Miss Rita Roskey, Enoch Pratt Free Library, Baltimore, corresponding secretary, and John Burgan, also of Enoch Pratt, treasurer.

Miss Evelyn Levy, assistant coordinator of adult services at Enoch Pratt, will take office Saturday as president for 1965-66. She succeeds Miss Alice Robinson, supervisor of school libraries for the Frederick County Board of Education.

Skydivers To Make High-Altitude Jumps

Cumberland Skydivers, local sports parachuting club whose members jump regularly at Municipal Airport, will add high-altitude free-fall jumps to their repertoire tomorrow.

Bob Judy, president of the club, said some advanced members will jump from altitudes of 11,000 to 12,500 feet, free-falling to about 2,500 feet before pulling the ripcord.

Several static-line jumps from lower altitudes will be made, and two students plan to make their first jumps tomorrow.

The parachutists will jump from about 1 to 6 p.m.

Mr. Judy said men and women interested in joining the club should get in touch with him at the airport tomorrow.

28 Years After Death . . .

'Jean Harlow' Has Returned

By DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—Twenty-eight years after Jean Harlow died, she is suddenly Hollywood's hottest property. Before the year is out, two films telling her life story will be competing at the box office and the race to be first could make cameramen gray and lawyers rich.

Joseph E. Levine is making $4 million movie called "Harlow." William Sargent is making a $1.5 million movie called "Harlow." Carroll Baker stars in the first, Carol Lynley in the second. Oddly, both girls have lately shown their all in Playboy.

The Electronvision process gives Carol Lynley's version a head start. While this is a movie, it is filmed with television techniques — an entire scene is shot at once. The result is that the Electronvision "Harlow" was shot in seven days.

Meanwhile, back at Paramount, the Carroll Baker "Harlow" is proceeding at forced draft. To speed things up, director Gordon Douglas is shooting it in sequence, unheard-of for a major motion picture. This will enable it to be scored as it goes along, which drastically cuts down the post-production time.

Miss Lynley's "Harlow" is due at the box office on May 12. Miss Baker's "Harlow" will come along on June 23.

All this is assuming that the lawyers don't rearrange the schedule. Both Levine and Sargent are broadly hinting about lawsuits. Both are flamboyant showmen, and they seem to relish the contest.

Levine delights in such tactics as taking ads saying "There is only one 'Harlow'" and Sargent happily sent Levine a telegram inviting him to play the part of Sam Goldwyn in his version. (Jack Kruschen actually did the role.)

Baker's Harlow

Harlow's Harlow

Lynley's Harlow

Sargent hired a blimp to fly over the Academy Awards ceremony advertising his "Harlow." Levine attended the event and plugged his "Harlow" in side-walk interviews.

Both films have been plagued by problems. Levine bought the controversial Irving Shulman book, then junked it when it provoked too much of a storm. He purchased a few screenplays, too, until he got one he claims satisfies him. At first he hinted that the picture would be sexy as all get out, later switched and now says you can bring the whole family.

Sargent's troubles have been casting. Dorothy Provine was first announced for the lead. On the record, she left the production because she didn't feel the part suited her. But Sargent, watching Carol Lynley's deathbed scene, whispered to me, "That scene cost me $25,000 — I signed Provine but I just couldn't see her dying — I couldn't feel sorry for her."

For the key role of Mama Jean, Miss Harlow's mother, Sargent signed Judy Garland. When she didn't show up for one rehearsal, Sargent called her agent and said if she wasn't there in ten minutes, she was out. She didn't show and Sargent kept his word. Then Eleanor Parker was announced for the part; she read the script and backed out. Ginger Rogers is playing it.

Both productions have high-power casts. Playing the same roles (the Electronvision version first) are: Miss Harlow (Carol Lynley vs. Carroll Baker); Mama Jean (Ginger Rogers vs. Angela Lansbury); Sleuthfather (Marino Marini vs. Barry Sullivan vs. Raf Vallone); The Leading Man (Efrem Zimbalist vs. Michael Conners); Paul Bern, her first husband (Hurd Hatfield vs. Peter Lawford).

The mystery of why two productions can use the same title isn't really mysterious. Most movie companies belong to an association which registers titles, thus avoiding duplication. But Electronvision is technically not a movie company, hence does not belong. Sargent therefore feels free to use the public-domain name "Harlow."

But both men hint darkly about lawsuits on this, too. So it should be an interesting spring. Especially if you have any desire to see a movie about Jean Harlow.

Shelley Winters Plays Dreary Roles In Films

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Shelley Winters is one of the most likable, whacky dames in Hollywood but on the screen she's been stuck with some of the most dreary roles in memory. When producers need a shrew, a loud mouth, a bawd, a slattern, or a brothel madame, they put in a call for Shelley.

It was only fitting then that the actress could be found in the MGM commissary sitting at a table and looking like World War III. Her frizzled blonde hair was black at the roots. The makeup added 10 years to her appearance. She was dressed in a ghastly black coat and slacks.

But Shelley is accustomed to tacky wardrobes and embalming makeup jobs. She laughed and joked and talked to everyone who passed by the table.

Hates Character
"You know," she said, "I've always found something to like in the characters I've played. But not this time."

"I really hate this woman. She blinds her daughter by accident when she was trying to blind her husband. And when the girl grows up she beats her. How's that for a role?"

The picture is "A Patch of Blue" and co-stars Sidney Poitier. Shelley, naturally, is the heavy.

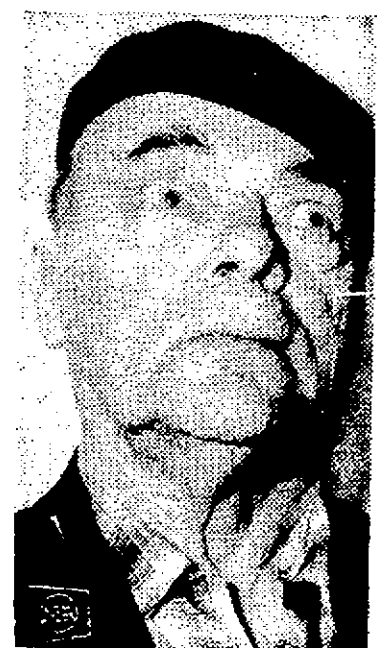

It's instinctive for an actor to make his character likable," she sighed, "even when the role is villainous. Remember Marlon Brando in 'The Young Lions'? He was playing a Nazi, but he tried to make him a nice Nazi."

No Redeeming Feature
"But the woman I play hasn't a single redeeming feature. She's just horrible, and sometimes I wonder why I get cast in these parts."

"Maybe the producers like to play an actress' personality and real character against a certain type of part. Believe me, some of the gals who play the sweet young things in movies are the worst witches in show business."

With a snort of self-approval Shelley sat back and promptly spilled a cup of coffee all over herself. Fortunately, the costume was already so seedy you couldn't see the stains.

STRANGE "CAREER"—People make their livings in all sorts of ways, but Horton Ellerbach's way is among the oddest. Ellerbach is a specialist: his job is to be kicked in the face. Horton is a movie stunt man, and he has been kicked in the face about 250 times a year for the last 15 years. Currently, he's working with Jerry Lewis in "The Family Jewels."

Welk Proves Well Spring For Talent

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Just 15 years ago, Sam Lutz, manager of Lawrence Welk, paid a local television station $200 to put the Welk band on the air.

Now Lawrence Welk, who has missed but one Saturday night on television since, grosses $4 million a year.

That puts Welk up among the titans of show business.

"And everybody who associates with Welk makes money," says Lutz. "Myron Floren and his accordion gross better than $100,000 a year on personal appearances. The Lennon sisters average around $350,000. Welk is a Hollywood oil well."

It wasn't that easy 15 years ago.

Lutz, who also was behind the Liberace boom, first met Welk during World War II.

"I was a special service officer in Chicago and Lawrence was playing at the Aragon Ballroom. Every time we put on a show for servicemen, Welk was the first to volunteer his band."

"I could see how popular he was in Chicago and the Midwest. After the war, I brought him out here and put him in another Aragon Ballroom at Santa Monica."

"The crowds came. Television, in those days, was just getting going. I figured Lawrence a natural for it."

"But it was tough selling him. Big hands were passed and I couldn't get Klaus Landsberg, head of Channel 5 on the phone."

"It was the top outfit in those days. So I gave orders to my secretary to put in a call to Landsberg every 15 minutes."

"Finally, one day he got on the phone. He finally said he would try Lawrence for one show provided we paid the musicians — about $200."

Bob Mitchum Rejects $6 Million For Series

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Bob Mitchum says he was offered $6 million if he'd do a television series, and he turned it down.

"What would anybody want with $6 million? How many boats can a man have?" ... Joe E. Lewis writes that his next movie (next?) will be a science fiction gem called "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Weather."

The lawsuit Paramount slapped on George Peppard for quitting "The Sands of Kalahari" doesn't bother him too much — he has five other offers since "Operation Crossbow" is such a smash ... Akim Tamiroff will play a South Pacific island chieftain with Dick Van Dyke and Nancy Kwan in "Lt. Robin Crusoe" for Disney ...

Does Walk-On

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Former UCLA football star Mel Profit made his movie debut in "Morituri" with only his feet and ankles appearing in a brief scene.

Comedian Cabot

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Bearded Sebastian Cabot landed a comedy role with Jerry Lewis in "The Family Jewels."

Crazy Decorative Patterns

United Press International

Now it's the no-glove look to gloves, following the no-bra bra and other freedom fashions. One glove manufacturer, Hansen, has produced the no-thumb shortie for spring and summer. The gloves in black, white or pearl suede-like synthetic resemble very much the open look of golfer's gloves except those for midday come with four fingers covered.

Those zippers once meant for heavy duty now form decorative closings for all sorts of summer sportswear. These industrial zippers, with bold brass pulls, long have been used for luggage, tents and such. Now they close pockets, jackets, pants and skirt plackets. Sometimes it seems there is more zipper than garment.

The newest in hair pieces requires no back combing or teasing to provide bulk to the head. The hair piece, called the "Hi Top", is the design of Signor Alfredo, hair stylist and wigmaker, who owns the Via Veneto salon in New York.

All height is built into the crown of the mesh base which is either oval or cone shaped, depending on the contour of the individual head. Place the "Hi Top" at the back of the crown and it falls into a bouncy shoulder-length "do."

Art and fashion have combined to make some of the most dizzying patterns ever seen in the summer clothes picture. Take a bathing suit from Rose Marie Reid. It's of a crazy, mixed-up pattern of black dots swirling around a modified white bikini and matching shirt. Black and white squares are used in a one-piece one-shouldered suit, the newest look for any number of summer fashions.

Veteran Program Due For Return

Veteran radio fans will recall "One Man's Family," a dramatic series that was tops in its field for many years. The creator and owner, Carlton Morse, gave it a brief spin on television in the early days when all production was live. Then it went out of circulation altogether. Now, Universal - TV has acquired the television rights from Morse and assigned a team of writers to whip the property into shape for another try on the picture tube.

OTTAWA'S TULIPS—Tourists throng to Ottawa, Ontario, during the annual Tulip Festival to wonder at the one million blooms which transform the city's parkways and parklands. 1,000 Isles Has Best Of U.S., Canada

The Thousand Islands has everything every other summer vacation area has, plus an added ingredient — its international character. It embraces areas in both the United States and Canada, and visitors can shuttle back and forth across the border with a minimum of formality. There is only a routine stop at customs en route across the St. Lawrence River, via the island-hopping, five-span Thousand Islands bridge that links New York State with Ontario.

Of special delight is the scenic view of some 200 islands that can be seen from the bridge. This year the distinctive new Canadian flag will be a vivid reminder to visitors from south of the border that they are in a foreign land.

United States vacationers who spend a minimum of 48 hours in Canada may bring back up to $100 worth per person of English china, silverware and woollens available in Canadian shops.

The Thousand Islands International Council has a brochure that outlines various auto tours of the region on both sides of the border, pointing out the highlights of interesting sites and activities, and how to get there.

New highways, new attractions and a variety of interesting events, together with unique scenery, will add up to a memorable vacation for visitors in the area this summer.

New Highway
The opening of the Watertown Bridge segment of Interstate Highway 81, scheduled for this summer, will provide a non-stop freeway from the Syracuse exit of the New York Thruway directly to the bridge. It will shorten the trip from New York City to six hours, and make the area within a day's traveling distance from Chicago or Washington.

On Hill Island, the first Canadian land linking two spans of the bridge, a new 425-foot Skydeck Tower will open this month. An interior elevator will whisk passengers to the top for a 24-mile panoramic view of the St. Lawrence, with ocean liners from all parts of the world plying the St. Lawrence Seaway. Surrounding the exterior of the concrete tower will be a circular staircase, offering a challenge to those willing to make the climb. A snack bar at the top and a restaurant on the ground level will provide refreshment.

The busy schedule of events opens on the Memorial Day weekend, with a bow fishing contest. Targets will be carp in the Lake of the Isles and Eel Bay sections of the St. Lawrence at Wellfleet Island, just across the United States span of the bridge.

The 11th Annual Thousand Islands International Outboard Marathon is scheduled for June 13. About 100 drivers from eastern United States and Canada will converge on Alexandria Bay and Clayton, N. Y. to compete in one of the most thrilling boat races in North America. Independence Day weekend visitors can also see outboard races at Clayton on July 3, and the following day at nearby Fishers Landing.

Brockville Carnival
The Brockville (Ontario) Summer Carnival will provide a busy program of activities from June 25 through July 4. Among the events are an air show, including skydiving; a powerboat regatta, professional theatre, band concerts, block dances, automotive show, bicycle races, golf and bridge tournaments.

Also in Canada, the North American Canoe Racing Championships will take place August 28 and 29 in Gananoque, with expert paddlers from Canada and the United States competing.

At the western end of the islands, a Canadian kite flying championship contest is set for July 18 and 19 in Kingston. Horse races are scheduled at the Kingston Memorial Center on July 16, July 1 and August 2. Sports car rallies will be held on the second Sunday of each month.

For devotees of country fairs, the Jefferson County Fair in Watertown is the oldest of its kind in New York State. It takes place August 2 to 8. The Lansdowne Fair, near the Canadian approach to the Thousand Islands Bridge, is scheduled for August 12-14.

Also in Watertown, the annual United States-Canada International Swim Meet — July 31 and 31 and Swim Meet is scheduled July 31 and August 1.

Upper Canada Village on the Canadian side, near Morrisburg, is a reconstructed version of a 19th Century village. Most of the buildings were salvaged when that area was inundated for the construction of the Seaway.

Further information may be had by writing to the 1,000 Islands International Council, Box 422, Alexandria Bay, N. Y.

August: Top of Texas Rodeo, at Pampa, near Amarillo. Rough Riders' Reunion and Rodeo, Las Vegas. "Last Escape of Billy the Kid" pageant at Lincoln, near Albuquerque, early August. Intertribal Ceremonial, drawing representatives of almost all Southwestern Indian tribes for dances, athletics, crafts, Indian campouts and riding events for three nights, four days late August at Gallup, N.M. Motorboat Races, Lake Mead, Nevada-Arizona.

September: Year's biggest Spanish Days celebration is the Santa Fe Fiesta, around Labor Day. Tri-State Fair (Okla., Tex., N.M.) at Amarillo. Fiesta and ceremonial races, Jicarillo Apache Reservation, south of Route 66, New Mexico. Oklahoma State Fair and Exposition, Oklahoma City.

Hospital Heliport
SA DA BANDEIRA, Angola (UPI) — The first Portuguese hospital with a heliport on the roof will be built here at a cost of 30 million escudos ($1,650,000) the ANI news agency reported.

DINING IN HIGH STYLE—Tower-top restaurants are virtually a German specialty. This 602-foot Stuttgart tower features a three-story restaurant at the 492-foot level. There are other tower restaurants in Berlin, Frankfurt and Dortmund. The Frankfurt and Dortmund restaurants even revolve. New towers are planned for Dusseldorf and Munich.

West Virginia Offers Free Guide To Events

Places of interest and things to see in West Virginia during 1965 are set forth in a "Calendar of Events," now available free of charge from the West Virginia Department of Commerce.

Devised mainly to attract additional travel to the Mountain State, the brochure lists many year-round activities and facilities, such as the Harpers Ferry National Historical Park and the White Sulphur Springs resort, as well as other seasonal attractions, such as the Cass Scenic Railroad and a myriad of events scheduled at Wheeling's Oglebay Park.

Seasonal attractions are listed month-by-month, from April into December. Included in these are such extended events as "Honey in the Rock," a Civil War musical drama staged nightly in Grandview State Park Amphitheater from June 26 through September 5 (except Mondays), and the Mountain State Forest Festival, October 7-9 at Elkins.

"Issuance of this brochure is a part of a continuing effort to make vacationing Americans conscious of West Virginia as a recreation wonderland," said Robert R. Bowers, director, Travel Development Division of the Commerce Department. "We are confident that once they realize what our state has to offer they will visit us and bring others in ever increasing numbers. But just as important is making residents of West Virginia aware of our versatile tours and vacation opportunities."

"A copy of the brochure will be mailed to anyone requesting it, as well as bulk mailings shipped to chambers of commerce, travel agencies, inquiring tourists and tourist information centers nationwide," he added.

Will 'Turkeys' Ruin Box Office?

By JACK GAYER
UPI Drama Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — It is to be hoped that a recent magazine article describing the traumatic connected with production of a musical flop called "Kelly" will not result in a customer boycott of Broadway box offices in general.

The article is the sort that might make a fellow want to squander his paycheck on drink instead of on that over-priced Jezebel of the arts, the theater.

But there are, believe me, despite this piece in the April 24 issue of the Saturday Evening Post by one Lewis H. Lapham, some people who, although they may not turn out a hit every time, know what they are producing and why.

That, as this article made clear almost at the beginning, can't be said of David Susskind, Daniel Melnick and Joseph E. Levine, neophytes all in the musical field despite their substantial credits in television (for the first two) and in the motion pictures for Levine.

Producers Share Blame
This producing team has to share the blame for "Kelly" with the creators of this fable inspired by Steve Brodie's successful jump (or did he?) off the Brooklyn Bridge some 80 years ago. They are Eddie Lawrence, script and lyrics, an unknown, and Mark ("Moose") Charlap, an experienced hand.

The article quickly made the point that Lawrence and Charlap intended their creation to be a spare, ironic, possibly socially significant, almost non-commercial type of show strongly influenced by Bertold Brecht's "The Threepenny Opera."

Much has been made in recent years of failure to "communicate" between individuals or peoples, as being responsible for infinite ills. Here seems to be an incredible example.

From the original script alone, the producers should have been able to discern the authors' intention and realize it wasn't what they wanted to do. If not from the script, then five minutes of talk with the authors should have let in the light.

Attitudes Differ
And the same discussion should have revealed to the authors that these men, accustomed to operating on a lavish scale, were not about to produce the sort of musical they had in mind. If either side had had the sense to say "hello and goodbye" at first meeting, $650,000 would not have gone down the drain and a lot of eggs would not have been bruised.

Actually, too much has been made of this figure and the fact that the show played only one performance on Broadway. And, to quote the magazine article, that "the New York drama critics unanimously condemned it as one of the worst musicals they had ever seen." They didn't like it, but they didn't quite say that.

It was a bad show in many respects, but there have been literally dozens of really horrendous musicals in recent decades beside which this one seemed half-way respectable, even though the authors felt they had been betrayed. The critics, like the public, have short memories. Whatever is the latest is, to all of us, the best or the worst. No one remembers that the critics were equally caustic about such-and-such last season or 10 years ago.

Also, there were certain other intangibles involved, as always in the theater, and Lapham, obviously not too knowledgeable about show business, did not allow for them.

Critics Vindictive
For example, while the veteran Broadway observer couldn't cite chapter and verse under court oath, it was all too apparent that some of the reviewers, to put it bluntly, seemed almost vindictive in their comments. As a matter of fact, one of these critics was co-author of the libretto and lyrics and director of no less a hit some seasons ago.

To say nothing of numerous closings during tryout tours such as the recent "Pleasures and Palaces" to the tune of almost $500,000 and with such successful professionals involved as composer-producer Frank Loesser ("Guys and Dolls") and "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" and librettist Samuel Spewack ("Kiss Me Kate").

Now there was a failure to wonder at! And there have been others, equally more significant than "Kelly."
